

Record Crowd Helps To Push Lions Club Carnival Over Top

Training Camp Soldier Wins First Prize, Main St.
Merchant Takes Second, Crowd Stays Till Very End

The largest crowd that ever turned out to a Newmarket Lions club carnival was on hand at the Lions park last evening. The crowd, generously interlarded with soldiers from the training camp, never weakened, from the ball game which started the evening until the last prize-winner had been announced at midnight.

President Frank Bowser thanked the crowd for the generous patronage, through Stewart Beare's loudspeaker system, and announced the prizewinners as follows:

1, Electric washing-machine, Pte. Lawrence, Newmarket camp; 2, 67-piece dinner set, Elman Campbell; 3, floor lamp, E. G. Holly, 191 Gerrard St., Toronto; 4, boy's bicycle, Sam Quast, Newmarket; 5, reclining chair, J. J. Knight, 20 Marion St., Toronto; 6, occasional chair, H. Boyd, Newmarket;

7, silver tea service and tray, Marie Reynolds; 8, girl's bicycle, Gwen Shier, two years old, 81 Eagle St., Newmarket; 9, electric iron, James Rogers, Newmarket; 10, 6-piece kitchen breakfast suite, Janice Law; 11, ton of coal, Chas. Bunn; 12, electric toaster, Willie Davis, 19 Simcoe St., Newmarket.

Chairman Frank Courtney said that while the crowd was the largest the club had ever had for a carnival, it would be two or three days before he knew whether the net proceeds established a new high.

One of the popular spots was the sideshow, which did a steady business all evening. Club

'Grim And Shocking Reality' Will Be Meeting Subject

OUTSTANDING SPEAKERS WILL ADDRESS NEW-
MARKET CITIZENS

(By Rudy Renzius, press secretary, Newmarket Civilian Defence committee)

The Newmarket Civilian Defence committee have been fortunate in getting two outstanding speakers for their first public meeting, in the town hall next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

From Toronto police station No. 3 comes Sgt. Irving Smith to give an instructive talk on A.R.P. work, as it has been organized and put to work in Toronto. From Newmarket comes Rev. Henry Cotton to speak on his views and experiences with A.R.P. work.

For a decade we have read about, discussed, looked at news-reels and made sacrifices to aid cities throughout the world which have been ravaged by bombs. Until just lately, however, the thoughts that such a winged menace ever could come to our cities and towns was something dismissed as war propaganda. Now we recognize the bomb-threat to our country as a grim and shocking reality.

How will our community stand up under the relentless pounding of an air-raid? How safe are the buildings in which we live, work and play? What kind of bombs are being tagged for us, and what is the extent of the damage each can do? These are just a few of the questions the members of the local defence committee are asking themselves. Be sure to co-operate with your local A.R.P. warden or postman. He's trying to help you and do come to the meeting on Tuesday night and bring a friend. It will be worth your while.

TANNERY BEATS CAMP BY NARROW MARGIN

In the most exciting hardball game of the season, the Davis Leather team defeated the Military Camp boys last evening by a 7 to 6 score on the Stuart Scott grounds. The game was played just before the big Lions carnival in the Lions park, as their contribution to the big night.

This was the first game of the final three-out-of-five series for the championship.

The next game will be played on Monday evening.

"Daddy, what is a bachelor?"

"A bachelor, my boy, is a man who didn't have a car when he was young."

"GLADS" WILL REIGN SUPREME SATURDAY

The grandest flower show of the year is usually the "summer" gladioli show. "Glads" will be the queens of the show.

Asters and dahlias will round out the display. Among the special prizes will be five cash prizes for public or separate school pupils for the best bouquet for a teacher's desk arranged at the show. There will be three prizes for the best decorated dinner table.

To members who have never exhibited before there are offered three prizes for the best display of cut flowers.

The show will be held in Trinity United schoolroom on Saturday.

HAS FINE RECORD OF MISSIONARY SUCCESS

Rev. Alex. B. Stein is to start his duties in the Newmarket Christian-Congregational church as the successor to Rev. Arthur Greer on Sept. 1.

Born of Scottish parents, Mr. Stein is a native of Toronto.

During his student days in Toronto Bible College, from which he graduated in 1930, he worked with Dr. M. H. Blandin of Toronto, pioneering a work to the north of the city which is now established as Langstaff Baptist church.

In 1931 Mr. Stein was called to Kingston as the pastor of Bethel Congregational church. In and around Kingston he has become widely known for his work not only in Bethel church, but in the founding and establishing of a Christian work known as Dovercourt mission, which is operated in conjunction with Bethel church.

A station-sponsored weekly radio program, "Sacred Reveries," has been another Kingston activity which has added greatly to Mr. Stein's popularity in Kingston. Here he has been engaged weekly ministering to the spiritual needs of a wide listening audience.

In 1940 Mr. Stein was married, in the church of which he has been pastor, to Florence Jordan, also of Kingston. They have one son of eight months, John Buchan.

MORE MISSIONS MIGHT HAVE CHANGED STORY

"Our main hope for the post-war world is to work harder at the business of being Christian," Rev. Henry Cotton said at Trinity United church on Sunday morning.

"What is it that has enabled Great Britain and the United States, who were bitter enemies less than 200 years ago, to be today the greatest of friends and allies?" he asked. "Christian principles have been the factors that have enabled us to achieve permanent peace, and Canada has played no small part in working it out."

"China might have been one of our enemies in this great struggle but leadership in China has in the main been in the hands of the products or the by-products of our Christian mission schools."

"It is conceivable that in Japan more missionaries might have turned the tide there. We made a great impact. It is not the Japanese people. It is the military party, just as it is in Germany. The German people are behind Hitler and produce munitions, of course, but Germany has been cursed with a military party for nearly 150 years."

"It is sometimes forgotten that Japan had a treaty with Great Britain for 75 years and that in the last conflict Japan was on Britain's side. But the military party have gained greater power since then."

"Even in Newmarket, where we have so many churches, I think if we had a survey we would be surprised at the number of people who have no church, until the angel knocks. Half the people I bury I have never seen before."

IS ONE OF FIRST "ALL ARMY" WEDDINGS

Believed to be one of the first "all army" marriages in Canada was that of Lance-Corporal L. D. Emery and Pte. Mary Walton of the C.W.A.C., both stationed at Newmarket training centre. The ceremony took place on Aug. 17 in the camp chapel, and was performed by the camp chaplain, Capt. A. W. Downer.

SEPT. 6 WILL BE NAMED RECONSECRATION DAY

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales has been advised by G. H. Lash, director of public information, that "In the near future, His Excellency, the governor-general will proclaim Sunday, Sept. 6, as a day of prayer and of national reconsecration to the war effort."

"Since it is desired that Reconsecration Day, which marks the third anniversary of Canada's entry into the war, should be solemnly observed throughout the whole of Canada, I am taking the liberty of writing in advance to request your patriotic collaboration in seeing that this day is observed in your community."

"At a later date, I shall be better able to specify the various ways in which you may co-operate in the observance of Reconsecration Day. In the meantime, however, I have thought it advisable to let you know ahead of time about this matter, and I am sure that you and your fellow citizens will do your utmost to observe Reconsecration Day along the lines which will be suggested."

Sacrifice Will Not Be In Vain, Padre Says Of RCAF Man

Military Funeral Given LAC Arthur Duffield Killed
When Plane Crashed On Mountain In Maine, Friday

The Royal Canadian Air Force, citizens of Newmarket and first world war veterans paid tribute to LAC Arthur Duffield in services conducted this afternoon. The R.C.A.F. gave the 31-year-old flier, who lost his life in a plane crash at Brownville Junction, Maine, on Friday, full military honors.

"Two fundamental truths are brought to our attention as we gather this afternoon to pay our tribute to our departed comrade," Flight-Lieut. Henry Cotton said at a service in Roadhouse and Rose funeral chapel.

"One is that expressed by Paul in the epistle to the Hebrews, 'Without shedding of blood there is no remission,'" said Mr. Cotton. "There is no freedom, no home life, nothing worthwhile. That which we accept so complacently has been paid for, is being paid for continually."

"One could say a great deal about the price of freedom. However, greater testimony than any words of mine lies before us at this moment. With his life—his greatest possession—our brother has made the supreme sacrifice for us and ours and all that we enjoy under God in this great dominion of ours."

"The Master himself facing Calvary, knowing that it would cost his life, said: 'Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends.'"

"A man may give of his time. A man may give of his money. But to give life itself is his greatest gift. Inevitably and inexorably the price of freedom, the price of victory, is being brought home to this community. The finest and the fairest of our youth have gone to fight for king and country and all that freedom-loving people hold dear. Not in vain will be their sacrifice."

"If this life were all we should be, as Paul said, 'of all men most miserable.' But we are British, we are Christians. We know that we shall meet again. We know that these loved ones of ours are in the hands of God."

"Jesus said: 'Let not your hearts be troubled. Ye believe in God. Believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions. If it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am there ye may be also.'"

"So we can truly say, 'Now the laborer's task is o'er. Now upon the farther shore Lands the voyager at last. Father, in thy gracious keeping Leave we now thy servant sleeping.'"

"To us a torch is flung. May it be ours to hold high. So shall our glorious dead not have laid down their lives for their friends in vain."

Following the service in the chapel an R.C.A.F. band from No. 1 manning depot, Toronto, led the funeral procession, followed by the padre, Flight-Lieut. Henry Cotton. Next came the tender, flanked by the escorting party, under the command of Flying Officer Butchart, and followed by the firing party, under the command of Pilot Officer Carson.

ACI Kroetsch came to Newmarket with the remains yesterday as an escort, and, after delivering a message of sympathy from the officer commanding the R.C.A.F. at Moncton, N.B., to the flier's widow, stood guard at the funeral chapel.

Mrs. Duffield and the flier's father, Jack Duffield, Raglan St., Newmarket, a veteran of the South African and the first world wars, received many messages of sympathy since the sad news became known.

Word reached Newmarket on Saturday afternoon of the accident which claimed LAC Duffield's life. He was one of three fliers who burned to death when their R.C.A.F. plane crashed within 100 feet of the summit of Saddle-Back Mountain, near Brownville Junction, Maine. One flier survived and carried news of the accident eight miles. Soldiers, guided by U.S. army airmen, recovered the three bodies.

Arthur Duffield was born at High River, Alberta, and spent his early life in Vancouver. He worked in Oshawa and Port Erie before enlisting in the R.C.A.F. in May, 1940. He was a frequent visitor to Newmarket, the home of his father, and his wife was a Newmarket girl, Elva Woolven.

Besides his father and widow, he leaves a young son, Gerald, a sister, Mrs. Fred Williams, Toronto, and a brother, Cecil R. Duffield.

SEEING OTHERS AS THEY SEE THEMSELVES

Franklin D. Roosevelt is the first United States president to become godfather to a member of the British royal family, a child of the Duke and Duchess of Kent.

If it is true, as is sometimes suggested, that there is permanent peace between Canada and the United States because both countries speak the same language, why was there ever war between the two countries? Why was there war between Canada (Britain) and the United States in 1812? One answer seems to be that the common language assures peace today, although it didn't then, because, with the aid of modern means of communication and travel, it is able to give a high degree of understanding in each country of the other country's viewpoint.

Even among countries of different tongues modern communication has become so easy that permanent peace among all nations is recognized as within reach of mankind. The financier in Toronto and the longshoreman in Capetown understand each other better today than the factory owner and the factory employee in Lancashire understood each other a century ago. The financier and the longshoreman today read the same world news and listen to the same radio stations, read many of the same books, but the Lancashire factory employee of a century ago probably couldn't read and quite likely the factory owner couldn't read either.

Understanding and toleration are ever growing among the peoples of the world (aside from the present interruption) and among the various groups in each nation and each community. Universal education is not going to prove itself a means of arming manual workers for the overthrow of the captains of industry and finance, but is going to prove the means of drawing all men together. There are ruthless people and selfish people, but most people are "human." They will do the decent thing if they see the other fellow's viewpoint. The seemingly hard employer is kindly and generous in the individual cases that have come to his attention. He doesn't intend to crush his employees. He just doesn't realize their problems. The seemingly heartless employee who as a member of a union would almost destroy the company which employs him moderates his attitude when he is taken into the confidence of the management and is given a measure of responsibility for the success of the joint enterprise.

We don't share the gloomy viewpoint of those who foresee in Canada political clashes that will lead to violence. The outlook is the very opposite. People are coming closer together all the time. Capitalists and communists are all in search of happiness, and modern communication, telephone, telegraph, movies, radio, press, are ever making both groups less extreme and more understanding of the other. We don't want to make the world dull and have no differences of opinion, but we are glad to see men coming closer together as they drink at the common heritage of human knowledge. Given the same facts, they reach similar conclusions.

MARTYRS ARE MADE

At the moment we feel slightly critical of one of the public men of our chief ally. About 20 years ago we heard Mr. L. S. Amery speak and thought he spoke well. Our present feeling is that Mr. Amery isn't doing so well. The Orillia Packet and Times compares Gandhi with William Lyon Mackenzie (although "not non-violent"), but Mr. Amery, Britain's secretary of state for India, probably never heard of William Lyon Mackenzie and possibly thinks that the day of martyrs is gone.

It didn't occur to Mr. Amery when he locked up Gandhi last week that he was sowing the wind to reap the whirlwind. Mr. Amery said that he had cut off Gandhi and other leaders from their followers and that there would be no trouble. Mr. Amery said that the police courts would settle any disturbances, but he set into motion a chain of events that put British troops into the position of firing on and killing civilians in the streets of India.

Mr. Amery wouldn't be interested in the opinions of newspaper correspondents in India that his action would have the opposite effect to what he hoped, that jailing the non-violence Gandhi would give the ball to younger and differently-minded leaders.

It doesn't much matter whether Gandhi is a saint or just another politician like Mr. Amery. The fact remains that he is as wise and as shrewd as a dozen Amerys. He has Mr. Amery put him in jail and lets Mr. Amery take full responsibility for whatever happens. He advises non-violence, even though violence might promote his cause, but Mr. Amery puts him in jail so that he cannot insist on non-violence, so that he cannot be responsible for any violence that ensues, and so that others may counsel violence.

Whether as saint or as politician, Gandhi has backed Mr. Amery into a corner and put Britain, fighting freedom's war, into the position of ruling with bullets and firing on civilians. Gandhi has forced Mr. Amery into openly ruling by force. Mr. Amery has given Japan straw with which to make out that it is she who is fighting for freedom for the Asiatic peoples.

Gandhi and Mr. Amery have pushed into the background Britain's Moslem minority problem (80,000,000 Moslems are roughly one-third of India's population)—a much more difficult problem than Britain had in British North America in the days of William Lyon Mackenzie or in America in the days of George Washington.

Those of our readers who have read "Oliver Twist" will have their own opinions on whether Buell could more readily have sold a pair of "Perkins" metallic tractors to Gandhi or Amery. Those who haven't read that story should read it—it helps us understand some things that seemed difficult before.

"URBAN" OATS

When Mayor Fred Conboy, good sport that he is, and a number of city of Toronto officials and employees went out to help on a suburban farm on Friday, the farmer apparently provided special city oats for the city men to handle. The Toronto Star says: "How do you feel?" the mayor was asked after the first load of urban oats was brought in off the 18-acre field.

"Urban" oats, Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn informs us, takes its name from its parents, "Early Ripe" and "BANner."

HIDING SOMETHING?

Andy Clark (Neighborhood News) told on Sunday of 12 men "stooking" 97 acres in ten hours. A group of five Newmarket men, averaging nearly two hours each, stooked between five and six acres of oats on Friday evening, and they worked hard. The farmer's daughters must have helped Mr. Clark's 12 men.

YOU'RE DOING BETTER, FARMER

Another war loan is on the way, and it is indicated that the government wants more money than the last time, first, to use the money to speed the downfall of Hitler, and, second, to get the money out of the hands of the public and reduce spending and the danger of inflation. The government has a bureau of statistics and it consequently knows where to look for surplus money. Statistics say that the industrial wage-earner and the farmer have the biggest increases in income over last year, and that is where the government will be looking for a big hand up in the next Victory loan.

We hope that it is true and that the farmer is able to put a substantial amount into Victory bonds. He will then have the money after the war to buy new equipment, install electricity and plumbing, buy a new used car (that's the kind we buy too), or to repair his fences. Probably too the government is looking to the farmer for an increased contribution in income taxes. How much the government should take in income taxes from a farmer who has really lost money for ten years and then makes a little something is a question that we are not qualified to answer, but we hope that taxation is tempered with justice.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

GANDHI THE BLACKMAILER

(Midland Free Press Herald)

One is forced to wonder what some people who a few years ago looked upon Mahatma Gandhi as little lower than the angels, think of the Hindu "saint" now.

The Indian nationalist leader has proved that he has feet of clay. Instead of the mystic idealist the world gave him credit for being he has been revealed as just another politician, and a far from scrupulous one at that.

He has chosen the moment of greatest peril for the British empire and the United Nations to stab freedom in the back. With the avowed purpose of winning immediate independence for India he threatened that unless his demands were granted he would lead his fellow countrymen in a campaign of civil disobedience. That was nothing more nor less than calculated blackmail. There was nothing else for the Indian government to do but intern him and his misguided associates as a preventive measure.

Today India is in turmoil. Rioting has broken out in many cities and there has been bloodshed. There can be no future but a dark one should the disturbances continue. Every British and American soldier who is obliged to serve behind the front line maintaining law and order is one less to defend the country against the Japanese who are on India's very border in Burma. Were it not for that threat to the whole cause of freedom Britain could and would gladly retire from governmental responsibilities. To surrender control of India at present, however, would aid the Germans and the Japanese in their plans for world conquest. Even the American people, who have been keen sympathizers with the Indian crusade for independence, have now lost sympathy with the shallow-thinking zealots who would drive the white men out of India only to let the yellow man in. The last state of India would be worse than the first.

The Indian people have been promised independence in any form they may be able to agree upon, at the end of the war. It is just a question, however, as to whether a majority of them really want to step completely outside the British empire. All thinking Indians realize that complete separation from Britain would possibly usher in civil warfare between India's two major races, the Hindus and the Moslems. They were always fighting before British rule gave India its first peace in centuries. The Moslems, who are in the minority, do not wish the British to withdraw, nor do many of the Indian princes, who rule over large areas. It is well to keep in mind that Gandhi and his supporters, the Congress party, may represent the largest single element in the population, but they do not speak for a united India. There is no such animal.

It Can't Happen Here

The hotel manager was passing down the passage one morning, when he saw the Boots kneeling at one of the bedroom doors cleaning a pair of shoes. "What are you doing?" he asked. "Take them down to the basement at once and clean them there."

"Impossible, sir," replied the Boots, "there's a Scots gentleman inside the room, and he's hanging on to the laces."

TO THE EDITOR

Sunday Work

I feel it is my duty, as a Christian who believes that we must live according to God's laws, to write against compulsory Sunday labor. There is a "Lord's Day Act" on our statute books, based upon the fourth commandment; yet we have the government ordering a seven-day week. Has the "Lord's Day Act" been repealed?

It is a well-known fact that more and better work will be accomplished in a six-day week with one day for rest, than by working seven straight days. This applies to animals and machinery as well as to manpower. This war is admittedly being fought, on our part, to maintain Christian civilization and freedom, and to destroy the evil in the world, and the ruthless domination of evil dictators. Can we ever hope to defeat this evil by the employment of wrong methods? Of what use are prayers for God's help if we continue to break His commandments?

IT'S GOING TO BE TOUGH for all of us BUT NOT TOO TOUGH

EMPLOYERS
If you have not received your copies of Table of Tax Deductions, Instructions, and the official Table of Tax Deductions, contact your local Inspector of Income Tax at once.

Income Tax is Fair to All

In the fourth year of war, Canada will need almost four billion dollars. This is the equivalent of nearly $350 from every man, woman and child in the country.

Even with the highest income tax in history, 52% only of the money Canada needs will be raised by taxation. The rest will have to be borrowed by means of War Savings Stamps, Certificates and Victory Bonds.

Starting with the first pay period in September representing September earnings only, your employer is required by law to deduct your income tax from your wages or salary, and send it promptly to the Government. Everybody will pay his share as he goes along.

It's going to be tough . . . but not too tough! Here are some good features:

1. You will pay as you earn, so that you will not be faced with a large lump sum payment next year.
2. The National Defence Tax already deducted during the first 3 months of this year has been taken into account in the Table of Tax Deductions.
3. Though the income tax rates show a sharp increase over last year, a large portion of this increase is actually savings, to be paid back to you with interest after the war.
4. The money you are paying for life insurance premiums, annuities, principal repayments on your home, or into a pension fund may be deducted (up to a certain maximum) from the savings portion of your income tax. In many cases this may be sufficient to make payment of the savings portion of the tax unnecessary.

Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments of the types mentioned in paragraph 4 above, you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise, you may not be allowed the credits to which you are entitled. DO NOT DELAY. File Form TD-1 with your employer at once so that you may get the full allowances from the start.

FARM
FORUM

By MAE HARMAN

Tremendous achievements have been made in the field of education during the past few years. Students are now considered as individuals, each with his own personality. No longer are they looked upon as machines to be fed the same material in the same way. Many schools have been transformed by the installation of equipment which the children use to develop skill with their hands as well as their minds. Much stress is placed on the development of citizenship ideals.

Appreciative as we are of these changes, we feel that many improvements could be made in rural education. Farming is no longer an occupation that just anyone can follow. To be an efficient farmer, one must be a scientist, engineer, economist and carpenter. A strong body is very important to a farmer, especially in war time, but an intelligent, well-trained mind is equally essential. At present, our schools are not equipped to provide an adequate practical training for rural living.

Equally as important as teaching agriculture is the need for the school to inspire a love of nature and an interest in the welfare of the community, rather than educating folk away from the land. We have become so machine-minded, and we move at such a fast tempo that we never think of pausing to enjoy the beauties of nature round about us, the flowers, trees, birds and animals. Even a glorious sunrise or sunset fails to touch
us. The "greenness" of far-away fields halts the development of community responsibility.

To a large extent, the standard of education of a community depends on its prosperity. Many communities have dilapidated schools, no practical equipment and woefully underpaid teachers.
A child born in British Columbia or Ontario has a better chance to have more money spent on his education than if he is born in Quebec or the Maritimes. The urban child has a better chance of receiving a good education than has the country child because it costs more to equip a school where the population is distributed over a wide area.
These inequalities of educational opportunities are most unfair.

The rural school should in no way be inferior to the urban school. It should be able to equip its students not only for rural life but to go forward to whatever vocation they choose.

Close co-operation between teacher and parents is most essential. Parents are often quick to make complaints without trying to find out the facts and discussing the problem with the teacher. The pitiful lack of attendance at rural school meetings demonstrates the indifference of the community to the conduct of the school. Those who are un-

OUR FEATHERED FRIENDS

By GOLDEN GLOW

This time of the year we see flocks of birds on the wing, and it is with deep regret too, for we know that soon they will be gathering in real earnest to start their long trip to their winter quarters in the south. I often wonder if they have a few trial flights to teach the youngsters
what to do, and what not.

I always smile when I see the tiny humming-bird that must have its home near my garden, for I see it so often. Or maybe I should say them, for I have no way of knowing how many there are. It may be the same one, and there may be a family of them—but when I see the tiny busy little creature among my flowers and hear the welcome hum that announces its presence I recall having heard that it "hitch-hikes" its way south, or north, when returning. Does it "thumb" its way and humbly ask its chauffeur for a ride or does it "hook" a ride
where its "chariot" is on the way, like the small boys in old days who used to sneak rides on bob-sleighs when the driver's back was turned, standing on the runner so as to drop off quickly should he turn around?

But it is amusing to think of the cute little birds cuddling down in the cozy warm feathers of a "blue goose" or mallard duck or whistling swan, and making the long journey in comfort and safety.
Does the big bird know the tiny one is there, and carry it willingly? We have no way of knowing.
We can just wonder and recall the old hymn, "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform," for we can see, in even such a humble way, His care for His creatures.

We are taking great fun over our two young families of blackbirds—just like last summer, the old birds teach the young ones to "dunk their doughnuts," and it is so like a human—you simply have to laugh! If they get a stale, hard crust they somehow know that if they soak it in their drinking-water it will soften up and the young birds seem so delighted at the result as they watch the old birds show them the trick—and then they try it for themselves.
They are hungry creatures, and even when so large you can't tell them from the parents, you'll find them sitting all five in a row with beaks open, waiting to be fed.
They all seem to keep together and if disturbed, away they go, all five, one after the other.

There is a weed that flourishes willing to contribute to the betterment of the school have no right to condemn the actions of those in charge.

Financial handicaps have been overcome in many areas by the adoption of larger units of administration. Under this arrangement, one board of management is elected to serve several schools and equipment, expenses and teachers are shared.

Our schools are one of the finest forms of democracy. In them we train the citizens of tomorrow. May they be equipped to carry out the tasks of the new day. Josiah Stamp has said,
"Education has a three-fold purpose. It should fit us to get a living, to live a life, to mould
a world."

ARE STARS OF "KINGS ROW"

Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings and Ronald Reagan are shown in a moving scene from the Strand's current dramatic hit, "Kings Row," film adaptation of the recent best-selling novel by Henry Bellamann.

luxuriantly this time of the year—
I should know its name but can't recall it—but it must have seeds ripening, for the sparrows certainly seem to find something they like and come in flocks. You scarcely are aware of their presence till something disturbs them and up they fly in a cloud. The nighthawk, too, isn't so persistent in its quest now for mosquitoes, though we must admit we still have plenty of that hungry pest. The robins are raising second families, but soon they, too, will show signs of disappearing north before they assemble here again for their departure for the winter home.
The swallows are still with us,
and from now on we shall see transitory flocks of our old favorites, who visited us a short while in the spring, and who will soon now be paying us a second visit on the way south.

I suppose I should not include dogs in this article entitled "Our Feathered Friends," but I can't help recalling how embarrassed certain doggie boy friends were earlier on when they "had their hair bobbed." Isn't it queer how they know they look comical?
And the hurt look in their eyes if you dare to laugh! Oh, they know all right if you laugh at them!
Yes indeed—and they try so hard to get out of sight or make themselves small. And while I am on the subject of dogs, may I add another thought—are you not heart-sore for the dogs whose loved masters are away fighting for us? I know several, and my sympathy goes out to them. Good faithful friends!

By the way last week's paper
surely gave us two grand stories of cats—I am still chuckling over both. But once again I am straggling from my subject—so "back to our muttons."

For I want to say what lovely pigeons we have in our town!
There is a lot of them not far from here, and they do delight my eye when they circle overhead,
two and two, so co-ordinated.
They wheel and turn so perfectly timed—just as do the starlings.
But it is when they come down that I enjoy them most—the precise way they trust—and turn on their toes—so unafraid too. And are they ever handsome? Indeed yes!
I wonder if any of you ever watch for the chap on the bench in front of the parliament buildings, Toronto, on your left as you drive past, going south. He always is surrounded by pigeons, all over him, on the bench, on the ground round him and he has a paper bag, feeding them. I always watch for him and he is always there! Maybe he is not always there but only that it has been my good fortune to see him when I have been down. Well, I just would like to be sitting on that bench now, myself, doing just exactly as he was when I saw him
last Sunday.

HEARD AT THE ZOO

A huge elephant and a tiny mouse were in the same cage at the zoo. The elephant was in a particularly ugly and truculent mood. Looking down at the mouse with disgust he trumpeted,
"You're the puniest, the weakest, the most insignificant thing I've ever seen!"
"Well," piped the mouse in plaintive squeak, "Don't forget, I've been sick."

MOVIES
PARADE

The film version of "Kings Row," one of the most popular novels of this decade, will be the new screen offering at the Strand theatre,
starting Monday. Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan and Betty Field head one of the most distinguished casts ever assembled in one motion picture.

Vividly brought to life on the screen is this story of young people, hemmed in by the stifling inhibitions and taboos of a small midwestern town in the early years of this century. Struggling to find happiness against the opposition of the seething undercurrent of gossip and backbiting, the strong and brave emerge victorious, the weak are submerged.

Two young men, and the two romances in which each becomes involved provide the central drama.
The love affair of Robert Cummings, as Parrie Mitchell, the gently-reared grandson of a foreign noblewoman, and his childhood sweetheart, Cassandra (played by Betty Field) meets a tragic end. He eventually finds some consolation and a promise of future happiness with Elise (played by Kaaren Verne).

The other young man, Drake McHugh, who is portrayed by Ronald Reagan, is embittered by the parental opposition to which Louise Gordon's (Nancy Coleman) family put in the way of their marriage, but finds his true mate in Randy Monaghan (Ann Sheridan), the right girl from the wrong side of the tracks.

The brilliant supporting cast is headed by Charles Coburn as the self-righteous Dr. Gordon, Judith Anderson as his wife, Claude Rains
as Dr. Towson, Cassandra's father, María Ouspenskaya, Parrie's grandmother, and Harry Davenport
as Parrie's old friend and advisor.

A KING DECIDES

Although it was Ferdinand V of Spain who dispatched Hernando Cortez on an exploration of the New World, it was his son, Charles I, that the redoubtable explorer returned to make his report. Cortez recommended that a passage to India be effected by digging a canal across the Isthmus of Panama.

Charles consulted his advisers and then rejected the recommendation. Asked to explain the reason for his decision, the King sternly replied, "It would be a violation of the Biblical injunction: 'What God hath joined together let no man put asunder.'"

"Are We Awake Or Still Asleep?" Asks Minister

(Rev. Henry Cotton, pastor of Trinity United church, spoke two Sundays ago at Barrie. The following report of his address is from the Barrie Examiner.)

Flight-Lieut. H. Cotton, chaplain of No. 1 manning depot, Toronto, who was shot down twice in the last war and spent two years as a prisoner of war in Germany, was the chief speaker at the drumhead service in Queen's Park.

Flight-Lieut. Cotton, in opening his address, quoted Winston Churchill:

"One fault, one crime, and one crime only, can rob the United Nations and the British people of the victory upon which their lives and honor depend—a weakening in our purpose and therefore in unity. That is the mortal crime. Whosoever is guilty of this, it were better that a millstone were hung about his neck and he were cast into the sea. Let us move forward into the storm and through the storm."

The speaker said that anyone who is guilty of creating disunity is guilty of treason. He appealed to his hearers to do all in their power to promote a united Canadian effort in this total war in which we are engaged.

"Can we take it?" he asked.

"The Germans and the Japs—we will not even stop to mention Mussolini's wops—will stop at nothing. They are fighting for their existence and so are we. I sometimes wonder if we know there is a war on. We should all ask ourselves at the close of the day: 'What did I do today to help win the war?' We sing 'Britons never shall be slaves.' Do we mean it? How much do we mean it?"

"Make no mistake—the Germans and the Japs are out to enslave us. If they win, we shall be hewers of wood and drawers of water. The queen said 'We are fighting for our homes.' How seriously are we fighting? The stake is our homes, our freedom, our very lives. What are we willing to pay for home, freedom, life?"

"Gallant, determined young faces of thousands of air crews rise before me. They are over there now, a living flying wall in Britain, Libya, the Far East—yes, and on our own east and west coasts; not only airmen, but the navy and the army, guard our lives with theirs. This living defence wall must not be breached. A great wall of fire, rapine, slavery and death, hangs over us, but the wall of defence must—will—hold."

"Soldier, sailor, airman, say—'Here's all I have—our lives.' What are we saying, or are we placidly, glibly merely singing 'Britons never shall be slaves.' We must do far more than sing. Now—now is the time for action. Or as it may too be said: 'They did too little too late.' Make up your minds to this—the war is fought on the home front as well as on the battlefronts."

"Are we awake or are we still asleep?" Flt.-Lieut. Cotton asked. "Wake up, Canada. There's a war on, a total war. We are fighting for our homes, our freedom, and our very lives. We must go on to Berlin. We will have to occupy Germany for 25 years. We must do a good job this time."

He had dined very well, and was doing his best to fit his key into the lock, singing a happy song meanwhile. After a time, a head looked out of the window above.

"Go away, you fool," cried the man upstairs "you're trying to get into the wrong house."

"Fool yourself," shouted the man below, indignantly. "You're looking out of the wrong window."

AURORA GENERAL STORE

YORK ATHLETES

C company went on to win three straight and qualify for the finals. In the last game darkness forced the umpires to call the game just when the youthful North Yorkers had struck their stride and were pressing their opponents hard.

The track and field team of the Queen's Yorks captured the Niagara camp meet, scoring 51 points to 31 for the 18th Field Ambulance, and 20 for the Queen's Own, with others trailing behind.

With most of their track men in the baseball game, the North York boys had only one man on the batting team but Pte. Don Brown of Newmarket won individual honors, winning the obstacle race over the commando course, taking the broad jump and being a member of the winning relay team.

Two other North York boys, training with headquarters company, played their part in the regimental triumph, Owen Richards of Aurora winning the hop-step-and-jump and scoring a second in the broad jump, and third in the hurdle jump.

Charles Egan finished third in the 100 yards and the Aurora boy ran cleverly in the winning relay effort.

McNeil of D company won the shot-put and standing broad jump, while Cpl. Hall of the same company ran a feature mile race to win easily. On Saturday morning the regiment formed in a three-sided square on the parade ground, and the band congratulated the winners in all the events, whilst their mates cheered lustily. Cliff Giles and Campbell Dolan, both former Newmarket boys, were members of D company's winning ball team.

Rifle shooting saw Ben Harrison of Aurora, a veteran of the Great War, finish second in the regiment with a score of 65 out of possible 75. The best of the special mention, for Mr. Harrison wears glasses. The winning score card was 65.

Other fine scores turned in saw youthful Frank Perrin of Newmarket with an amazing card for a non-shooter of 59. Perrin, in snap-shooting, scored 79 shots on and put his fifth by mistake on his neighbor's target. J. M. Brown of Glencoe had a 52 total, and Lance-Corporal S. J. O'Leary of Schomberg, sniper in the last war, had a score of 51.

Four men from C company tried the tests for army truck-drivers and three were successful and saw plenty of work behind the wheels of "jeeps." Lance-Corporal Gordon Stephenson, Pte. Barney Lopa-triello of Aurora and Pte. Stan Eckler of Richmond Hill were the successful ones.

Capt. Earl Bales and his officers entertained the men of the company at a gala camp party last Thursday evening, with Col. Bennett, the padre, Capt. Shires, R.S.M. Lewis Jowett and C.S.M. J. Thomas of the A and T staff being honored guests. A Swiss yodeler and guitar artist provided music, while Glen Copthorn of Newmarket made a hit with his harmonica work. Jimmy Good, blackface artist with the Dumbells of stage fame in the last war and now a member of the county reserve unit, brought down the house with his witticisms. The party broke up at "lights out." Capt. Bales was greeted with tremendous cheers.

The entire battalion visited historic Fort George for a tour of inspection on Saturday morning. The men caught a word picture of the past here on this historic spot where men of their own regiment had fought and died. The Niagara Parks Commission has done a remarkable job of recreating the actual fort and has a fine collection of relics and every relic. It was a nice break for everyone and was much appreciated by all.

In the afternoon two camp lines were struck. On Friday night the North Yorkers had their first taste of the black-out, as the camp was dimmed, cleared of all men and officers and completely blacked out in a very few minutes. It was a half-hour before all-clear came but officials were well pleased with the way lights and men disappeared in the twinkling of an eye.

The same night Lieut. J. L. R. Bell commanded the guard of honor for retreat ceremonies at the camp commandant's headquarters. The guard was relieved at the night before had a relaxed history by marching to Fort George to lower the Union Jack.

Sgt. Gladstone Lloyd of Schomberg, president of the King township war veterans' associations, and the Aurora boys of his platoon were the spearheads of the unit's signals corps and did mighty fine work. Most of the men attended the annual signal training centre and benefitted greatly from the instruction received.

Tonight the Aurora company will parade at the armory and will be greeted by Lieut. Murray Allen, the new paymaster, who will be a welcome sight to all. No further intensive training will be held until September. From the inquiries received it would seem likely that a large number of new recruits, especially from King and Nobleton, will be added to the present C company enrolment, which numbers around 125 men. Many of the boys who attended this year's camp have evinced a desire to go on active service and will soon be sent to the company. Their shoes, however, will be filled by men of the proper age and caliber without difficulty, it is thought.

BARBARA SIMMERSON IS LOVELY BRIDE

Beaches Presbyterian church, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon when Barbara Muriel Aileen Simmerman, Toronto, youngest daughter of Mrs. J. Simmerman of Aurora and the late Mr. Simmerman, was united in marriage to Wm. Alexander McIntyre, son of Mrs. W. McIntyre and the late Mr. McIntyre. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Sanders.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Clifton Spence, to music rendered by F. C. Wharram, preceded by Carl Sturges and Donald Taylor as ushers. Mrs. Arthur Urquhart, niece of the bride, was matron of honor. The groom was attended by his brother, Sgt. Jack C. McIntyre of Sidney, N.S. Miss Georgia Reynolds sang.

The bride wore white silk Jersey, fashioned with long torso bodice, sweetheart neckline, full skirt and full-length veil of white tulle falling from a heart-shaped halo. She carried a shower bouquet of deep red roses and bouvardia. The matron of honor was gowned in blossom pink net frock. Her head-dress was pink roses and blue daisies, and she carried a garland bouquet of matching flowers.

The mother of the bride was attired in Queen's blue crepe with white accessories and wore red roses while the mother of the groom wore mauve flowered crepe with black accessories and corsage of apricot roses.

Following reception at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. D. Sturges, the couple left on a trip to northern Ontario, the bride travelling in blue wool crepe suit with brown accessories. They will reside in St. Catharines.

STILL "HANGS FIRE"

Aurora town councillors received a request last week from King township for a conference on Friday night on the fire agreement, but were unable to assemble in time. A meeting is to be held late this month prior to both councils' regular September meetings.

Meanwhile Aurora firemen continue to service King township.

Charge Men Arrested At Aurora Beat, Robbed Host

County Constable Aubrey Fleury and Chief Constable Fisher Dunham arrested early Wednesday morning four young soldiers from No. 23 basic training centre, Newmarket, for the assault and robbery of Kenneth Watson of Unionville late Tuesday night.

The Aurora police received word of the incident around 11.30 p.m. and shortly after 12 on Wednesday morning had forced their quarry into the curb on Wellington St. and had them under lock and key. The four men arrested were Ptes. Neil Quinlan, 22, Richard Fitzsimmons, 22, and Thomas and Gordon Ellis, 22 and 19 respectively.

Around 10 p.m. the four men, said to have been accompanied by a fifth soldier, entered the North York Veterans' club at Steel's Corners and there met Mr. Watson, a well-known dayman and one of the backers of the Markham Junior hockey club. Mr. Watson played host to them, buying them beer, sandwiches and cigarettes, and they repaid his hospitality by luring him outside, where they proceeded to assault him, strip him of his trousers and speed northward in a car owned by Fitzsimmons' mother, after taking $240 from his well-filled wallet.

Steward Fred Iris of the club summoned County Constable Anthony Crouch, who sent out a general alarm. The Aurora police turned the men over to Sgt. Sydney Barraclough and Constables Crouch and Edgar Kild after they had satisfied themselves they had had satisfied persons. Constable Fleury found $150 cashed in the car but the remaining $90 has not yet been recovered.

The quartet appeared before Magistrate William Keith in York county police court, Toronto, on Wednesday morning and were remanded until later in the week.

Had To Hang Out Sign "Standing Room Only"

The Anglican summer school, which for the past three weeks has looked at $5 a table each morning, will close on Friday afternoon. Official sessions will end in the morning but at 3 p.m. in the afternoon a concert and an exhibition of handicraft to which the general public is invited will be held. The staff of the school has students have attended faithfully each morning.

"We had to close registration," Rev. R. K. Perdue said. "Enthusiasm never waned, and the attendance and weather have both been good."

THE BETTER HALF

A tramp knocked on the door of the inn known as "John and the Dragon." The landlady opened the door, and the tramp greeted her: "Could you spare a poor, hungry man a bite to eat?"

"No." And she slammed the door.

A few minutes later, the tramp knocked again. The landlady, once more opened the door.

"Could I have a few words with John?" asked the tramp, grinning sheepishly.

Advise Beefmen Care In Selling

The following is a press statement issued July 22 by H. H. Hannam, president, Canadian Federation of Agriculture:

"Farmers selling small lots of cattle eligible for export should realize that export prices, and prices paid by the Food Corporation in competition with export prices, are somewhat higher than prices paid for domestic supplies.

"We hear that agents of packing companies and others are taking undue advantage of this situation, these days, and are attempting to buy direct at the farm more than is generally the case. The farmer who produces cattle at this time of short supply is entitled to his full selling or export value, and speculative margins have no place in the handling of wartime food supplies."

A Vote of Confidence

Thank you, Readers, for the fine vote of confidence in northern York county's new newspaper venture.

The way subscription payments have been coming in, in response to the request that all subscriptions be paid in advance, has been an inspiration to the publishers and staff.

When every subscription is paid in advance, and subscriptions are not carried past the due date without the subscriber's permission, it will be easy to keep the newspaper paid for, and we believe that everybody will like the system.

Many people, used to daily newspaper and magazine practice, do not feel that their local newspaper should continue on after the expiration date, without authorization, and so, as it is not possible to treat some people by one rule and others by a different rule, it is found most satisfactory to follow the standard practice.

The Era and Express will mail subscribers an advance notice a month to two weeks before expiration and, if necessary, another notice at the time of expiration. Should the subscriber make no response, reasonable courtesy will be shown before discontinuing the newspaper but the newspaper will be discontinued and the subscriber will not be put under any obligation to pay for a newspaper not specifically ordered.

The Era and Express is anxious to go to every home but it will not go without permission.

MEMBER OF AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

DOWN THE CENTRE

Queen's Yorks scored a notable triumph last Thursday night at the Niagara camp track meet by finishing first with a total of 51 points as against 31 points for the 16th Field Ambulance, 20 points for the Queen's Own and lesser totals for the Irish and Argyls. The triumph was all the more remarkable when it is considered that the unexpectedness of the meet found some good track men on pass and baseball kept sterling performers like Myles Macinnis and Mike Thompson of C company on the sidelines.

Don Brown, a Newmarket high school athlete, scored two impressive wins in the high jump and the obstacle race and was a member of the winning relay team.

Owen Richards, former junior and intermediate titleholder at Aurora high, took the hop step and jump and made points in both the broad jumps as well as running in the relay. Charlie Egan scored a third in the 100 yards and ran well in the relay. Cpl. James ran a lovely race to take the mile and McNeil, shortstop for D company, took the standing broad and the shot-put. The pennant awarded by Sally Ann officials rests now in the officers' mess and, while of no intrinsic value, sentimentally will be remembered in years to come. The winners received flat fifties of cigarettes. It was a big difference from last year when Syl Apps, single-handed, won honors for the Scottish, and the Yorks made a dismal showing. The winning team received the plaques of their mates and their colonel on Saturday morning before the whole regiment.

Baseball honors went to D company but the North York youngsters went down battling. Mike Thompson received poor support in the first two innings and was blasted from the box. He had pitched two straight wins on previous nights. Kirbyson, who succeeded him, did well. It was too late, however, as with the C company boys fast overhauling their rivals and within halting distance darkness intervened.

Delroy Babcock turned in a sensational fielding performance, turning a complete somersault on one catch. Lieut. Bill Allen behind the plate also turned in a fine effort. In a desperate effort to win Manager Babcock even inserted yours truly in the game and, believe it or not, we had three hits. Ab. Watts was potent at the plate but a bit unsteady afield.

"Speedy" Giles turned in a fine game for the winners as did Seedhouse from the Davisville league behind the plate. Pitcher Paul Kitzner and McNeil at shortstop. Everyone, however, agreed that last year's C company team would have walked off with honors easily.

John VandenBergh, the elongated hurler of last year's team, and Ken Brown, an outfielder on the same team, visited the camp on Friday night in time for a black-out party being held by some of the lads and had a real time. Both look the picture of health. Pitcher "Chuck" McDonald of last year's regimental team, who hurled a no-hitter against the Alberta regiment, is a sergeant with the Yorks active unit. "Mickey" Smith is in the navy, Joe Cody is with the tank corps, while the rest of the battalion team are either on war work or elsewhere.

Ross Bray of Newmarket won the leg-pulling wrestling contest of C company in the games period on Saturday morning. Mike Thompson was sent up as No. 15 platoon's representative against long John Goheen, who carried honors for No. 13. Goheen won easily and took the side wagers back to his platoon. Bray was not backed by his mates from No. 14, as they figured Goheen was a cinch but Bray carried everyone by flipping Goheen two of three.

Ben Harrison, the Aurora milkman and a veteran of the Great War, surprised everybody by taking top honors in the rifle-shooting for the company. He finished one point behind the best marksman. Harrison wears glasses, too, but wore an eye-shade over one eye when on the ranges. A little more practice and Bennie would be right at the top.

Swimming was a welcome relief to the boys on three afternoons after heavy route marching and manoeuvres. A secluded spot was picked and company by company the lads would take to the cool waves of Lake Ontario au naturel and frolic around with the abandon of old swimming-hole days. It was quite a sight to see the various shades of tan and the faces made as the boys doused themselves in the water at first.

The baseball trophy was a present of other years from Capt. Aubrey Davis and it was a sore touch to the North Yorkers to see the Toronto lads get it. "Why didn't they tell us whose cup it was," wailed one lad. "We'd have brought it back to the Davis Leather Company if we had only known." Capt. Davis, we have noticed, is very popular with all the Newmarket lads.

Tommy Ivanoff, who coached Bruce and Lorne against Aurora three years ago and took them to the B title and A finals in subsequent years, has enlisted with an infantry unit. He is the first hockey coach of note to take the plunge, most of them being too old.

Dr. Neil Smith of Stouffville, former tri-county hardballer, now overseas with the dental corps, has wed overseas. The bride, Miss Mary McFarland of Toronto, who went overseas with a group of Canadian psychology experts.

Bruce Stiles, one of the best all-round athletes ever turned out in North York, has been married in England for over a year and is now a daddy himself. His elder brother, Jay, set him an example nearly two years ago and he is also a parent. Bruce was a smart trackman, basketball, hardball and lacrosse player and might have done all right at hockey but didn't try his hand at it. Jay Stiles played soccer, basketball and track at Aurora high and some town league hockey. He is a member of the famous 48th, while Bruce is with the artillery.

R. C. Pearson, Sutton boy overseas with an infantry unit, finished second in the quarter-mile finals in the track meet held overseas last week by the Canadian troops in England. The winning time was fast, so Pearson must have turned in a real performance.

Newmarket Camp track men carried the white man's burden in the big military track meet last Saturday and scored most of the 133 points which placed M.D. 2 (Toronto) in second place behind M.D. 1 (Kingston). Vinnels, a miller from Orillia camp, was the only first-placer outside of the boys from Harkness barracks. Al. ("The Deacon") Plummer won the half-mile event. The Camp's relay teams won two firsts.

Larry O'Connor ran on the winning relays and scored two seconds in the century and furlong sprints. He gave an exhibition 120-yard hurdle race and was clocked in 15.3, which is fast time but not his best effort. O'Connor is now a corporal and rumor, which is pretty well founded, has it that he will shortly be on his way to Brockville or Gordon Heat, P.C., to train as an officer and no one can argue but that it would be a well-earned promotion. Glennie, Smith, Olcher and others from the Camp helped to make a fine showing.

"Red" Gillespie, who played for Milton juniors last year, is headed for the R.C.A.F. and will soon don a uniform. His brother, Grant, who spelled quietus for Aurora juniors in the C finals a few years back, is with the 30th battery. Gillespie has been playing lacrosse for Etobicoke this season and doing well in senior company, which brings us to the doings of Murray Scruton, who mancoored Etobicoke juniors last winter against Aurora. Scruton is one of the most vociferous upholders of his teams we know and went off the beam last week by playing an illegal player, costing his club $100 and just about knocking them out of the race via the suspension route. Now he's back in again after threatening retirement. All along we have taken with a grain of salt his avowal that he is through with hockey and that the Cokes will not ice a team.

"Rusty" White, the Richmond Hill boy who was the Lionel Conacher of North York in his day, is playing captain of the Owen Sound Greys in senior lacrosse and doing pretty well in the scoring records, being in fifth place. It must be remembered he has played several games less than the leaders and may yet catch them. He commutes from Fergus to Owen Sound for the home games there.

Ross Weese, who helped White get his start in lacrosse and brought the game back to Richmond Hill after an absence of many years, died a few weeks ago. His two sons, Harold and Al., were both members of the Richmond Hill club, which in its initial year ousted a favorite Aurora club to take southern group honors but bowed out to Orillia for tri-county honors. That was in 1931 and three or four years later the club went through to take the title with Al. and "Rusty" White.

Becky Jacques, Cal. and Mike Miller, Dempsey Armstrong, Jack Johnston, Alf. Stong, Bruce Cordick, Ken. Kingdom and the Weese brothers in the line-up. Kingdom, who was coach, and Jacques are both dead now. The next year White moved to Fergus and has been there since with a good job too.

Willie Beresford, captain of Aurora junior hockeyists two years ago, has joined the R.C.A.F. Willie, while not a brilliant player, had plenty of fight and was steady, and on off the ice was a perfect gentleman. He was pretty good at tennis and badminton too.

Arnold Tomlinson, the big North Gwillimbury boy who played some well baseball for Sutton when they were in organized softball and then moved southward to play for the Newmarket Redmen, has joined the army. Tomlinson was a fine hitter and a sure catch and won all-star rating two years ago.

Eddie Mosley, the cyclist who enlisted with the tars quite a few weeks ago, has received word to report and is already decked out in bell-bottom trousers. He did a fine job of soldiering with the reserve army before enlisting.

Marj. McCarnan, a few weeks back was one of the stooges for the famous Al. Schacht as he performed at Maple Leaf stadium. However, the Newmarket girl is no stooge at bat and at present is in second place among the girl hitters at Sunnyside stadium. Don't be surprised if she cops top place soon, as her nearest rival has an injured bat. Whether or not she does, she has definitely won herself a place in the hearts of Sunnyside fans with her fine playing.

Ace Yake writes from B.C. to tell us about the doings of the Daffy Duffs: "Having served two years without a mishap," he writes, "I now wear a good conduct stripe. But I haven't the nerve to wear it when I go to Nanaimo, as my friends know me too well. Guess folks will think G.C. stripes are easy to get when I get one. Bert Tunney gets his next week."

Jack Jarvis of Thornhill is pitching for Ace's company and he is throwing good ball with Yake behind the bat. "Punch" Bradley, formerly of Toronto, is tossing them over for the battalion team, who are cutting quite a dash on the west coast but are presently overshadowed by a fast Canadian artillery team. He recalls his junior softballers of a few years back, who might well have won a title if they had ever all got together at one time. Craig McKenzie, Anson Gilbert, Bill Walker and the late George Davis joined the army with Yake. Hillis is with the tanks and "Nip" Armstrong with ordnance. McComb, Hodgins, Rawlings, Foliott, Bilbrough and others are still about.

"I am sure they are all playing their part, for they all had what it takes and with a little luck we would have picked up the marbles and an Ontario title."

We are indebted for a copy of the Duffs paper, which we have not yet had time to peruse since returning from Niagara, but which while mimeographed is pretty well done. The boys, we learn, are taking commando training now but Yake doesn't say so. What he says is, "Guess it looks as if we were trainees. We've been here so long but we will fool you yet."

Boxing bouts at Niagara camp saw no Queen's Yorks entered but we enjoyed a story told us by the referee for an inter-regimental bout, of two green lads being matched and one of the fresh youngsters asking him as he got his instructions: "Which corner do I go to after I knock out this guy?"

"Funny part was he did just that but had plenty of time to go to any corner for the balance of the night, so potent was his punching. Battling honors at Newmarket as compiled by Harry Doonan, a hitter of note in his day, find no less than 20 hitsmiths batting over .300 and six batting over .600. We doubt if there is any other league with a similar record. Undoubtedly there are quite a few good hitters in the three-team loop but it certainly doesn't speak well for the calibre of pitching. Hitting power is something the fans would probably rather see, however, than scoreless innings of baseball so long as the flogging isn't too bad.

Morning exercises at Niagara camp this year were not too plentiful and not too strenuous. Fred Rowe, Del. Babcock and Lloyd Rose were on the P.T. course given for the district and all picked up a few new pointers and did well. The authorities have apparently found out that the last war taught that heavy P.T. exercises on an empty stomach at daybreak are good neither for men nor beast.

Reveille even at this late date still rings in the ears of the boys and between 5 and 6 a.m. most of the lads are stirring in their beds with ears keyed up waiting for the first blast to sound. So there should be no reason for any of the lads to be late for work this week. Won't be long, however, before even the shrillest of alarm clock bells will have a tough time awakening most of us.

Athletic standards have been set up by the U.S. army and it is plain our Yankee cousins are not aiming to develop champions, though it is not adverse to accepting the finished product. Standards set are: 100 yards dash, 14 seconds; running high jump, 30"; running broad jump, 12 feet; push-up from ground, 20 times; basketball throw, 60 feet; baseball throw, 125 feet; bar or fence vault, four feet; quarter-mile run, 87 seconds; half-mile run, three minutes, 15 seconds; pull-up (chin), six times; 29-foot rope climb, 20 seconds. Even those figures would be pretty tough for a lot to negotiate.

NOW NEW COMFORT for GLARE-SENSITIVE EYES

... Under modern living conditions many people suffer great discomfort from excess light ... glare ... over-brightness. Their glare-sensitive eyes tire easily, causing needless fatigue ... nervousness ... headaches.

Modern optical science has met this condition by the discovery of scientific glare-absorbing lenses known as Tone-Lite. These lenses neutralize excess brilliance and filter out glare. They are delicately, flesh-toned, blend with the complexion, are inconspicuous and most becoming.

Corrected Tone-Lite lenses are prescribed in various flesh-toned shades depending upon the need of the wearer and are made to suit your individual prescription in all bi-focal and single vision forms. They are also available as optically-ground sun-glasses.

When you have your eyes examined inquire about Corrected Tone-Lite Lenses.

REFRESHING SHOWERS

By Capt. Fred Brightwell, Salvation Army

In St. John's gospel, the 16th chapter and the 13th verse, you will find these words, "When He, the Spirit of Truth, is come He will guide you into all truth." These were the words of Jesus and how important they were, considering the fact that these words were among the last spoken by Jesus to His disciples; He was soon to leave them, "but," He said, "let not your hearts be troubled."

However, Thomas said unto Jesus, "Lord we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?" Thomas knew the value of having a guide in his life and he certainly was not blind to the fact that his guide had been Jesus—and now Jesus was preparing to depart, Thomas wanted some assurance of safety on the path ahead and so we find Jesus, understanding human nature as He did, told them that when He (Jesus) should depart the Comforter "whom I will send in my name, will guide you into all truth." John 14: 26, 16: 13.

A guide in life? Yes we do need a faithful guide, one upon whom we can depend.

In reading the newspapers, we read of a party of mountain climbers who, because they disregarded the warning to hire a guide, had been lost by plunging into a snow-bound, hidden chasm, thus paying the price of their lives for foolishly refusing to obtain the help of one who knew the dangers of the path ahead.

It is so in the everyday life. We find people neglecting to allow the Comforter, the Holy Spirit, Spirit of Truth to guide them, by reading of God's Holy Book, into the paths of safety. How concerned they are about their appearance—eager to be dressed in the latest fashion and paying for a "guide" who informs them as to the importance of maintaining a good outward appearance. It is written "Man looketh on the outward—God looketh on the inward appearance."

There is one beautiful illustration I wish to use at this point of my letter, you will find the story of a young man who wanted to know all there was concerning a guide in the path of righteousness, the story as written by St. Mark in his book in the tenth chapter and the seventeenth verse. Here was a young man, with all his powers fresh and full. He was rich, with all the honor, ease, distinction and influence that riches give; of good reputation among his fellows. His character was above reproach because, he stated "All these have I kept from my youth up," referring to the commandments Christ had mentioned. It was then that Jesus told him what to do, and how said it is that the story ends without the knowledge of whether or not he followed the greatest Guide's advice.

My Dear Reader, I think you will see the importance of having a guide in life. If we look at the word "guide" in the dictionary we shall find that it means to influence, to instruct, to regulate. Therefore do we not need in our lives someone who can be continually with us and under every circumstance and difficulty and temptation be able to "guide" us and without our fearing that the "guide" will fail? Hallelujah! Jesus never fails; just as Noah, Enoch, Abraham, Joseph, Moses, Samuel and David all realized the value of a God-guided life—so must we. In closing I want to leave the words of a splendid song:

Holy Spirit, faithful guide, Ever near the Christian's side, Gently lead us by the hand, Pilgrims in a desert land, Weary souls for aye rejoice, While they hear that sweetest voice, Whispering softly, "Wanderer come! Follow me, I'll guide thee home."

Let us all make certain we follow daily the strivings of His Holy Spirit—our "Faithful Guide."

SOLDIERS APPRECIATE GIFTS FROM VETERANS

"Thanks a million again for cigarettes received about a week ago," writes Sgt. Fred Evans, in a letter to the Newmarket Veterans. "They certainly arrived at the right time. The Vets seem always to come through at the proper time, and good for them. We can't express our appreciation properly on paper, but honestly you're all life-savers. I'm still in good health and trust everything back there is going smoothly. We've had simply grand weather for practically a month or more, which as you know is really strange for England."

"I have just had a letter from mother in which she mentioned that you had not received my letter of thanks for your last parcel of cigarettes," writes Pilot Officer Jack Malcolm. "I wrote at the time the parcel arrived but just in case the letter went down, I want you to know that they were received and were very much appreciated. I do not want the Veterans to think me ungrateful, and I would like to take this opportunity to thank them once more for their kindness and generosity."

An interesting letter was received from LAC Jack Watts in which he says: "Thanks a million for the parcel and three hundred fags. Both arrived in good condition. The canned goods certainly were a rare treat, especially the fruit. It is hard to really appreciate these commodities until you find it impossible to get them."

"The cigarette situation is rather grim, for the less fortunate men. When we see chaps wait in line sometimes half an hour for perhaps only ten cigarettes, we realize how fortunate we are to have friends who send us fags."

"After some months of unsettled weather, it has at last shown a change for the better. Two weeks ago it turned warm. The hottest day was 85."

"There certainly are a lot of local lads over here now. This fact, combined with the wonderful work done by the different local organizations, makes a record that we all can be justly proud of. The wonderful support given by you all really gives us what it takes to do our part, however small it may be."

"In an attempt to cut down on the use of petrol, our squadron has been issued with bicycles. Officers, N.C.O.'s, and airmen are seen anywhere and everywhere, tearing to and fro on bikes. Our C. O. is the only person privileged with the use of a car. Occasionally there are a few traffic jams, but no casualties have been reported as yet."

Cards of appreciation for cigarettes were received from Cpl. C. E. Bennison, Pte. D. Carley, and Sgt. Gordon Thompson.

SAY SCRAP RUBBER IS VITALLY NEEDED

"Every Canadian must be made to realize the importance of salvaging scrap rubber," the Newmarket salvage committee stated this week. "It is not a matter for procrastination, something we can put off until next month, next year, or some date in the dim future. There is no next year for the aviator shot down in the channel without a life raft; not even a tomorrow for the man who slips from the unprotected catwalk of a bomber and plunges through the clouds. These are only two of the things our ineluctable might bring about."

"Reclaimed rubber is mixed with new crude rubber in proportions from 25 to 40 percent of the mixture. Thus it conserves our precious stock of crude. The bits of scrap collected will turn up in unexpected places. They may appear as a mat in an explosives plant, be used to make fuse covers, line a steel helmet or be used on the wings of a plane to make them flexible and so prevent them becoming coated with ice, or to form the self-seal which will insure the gasoline supply of a bullet-riddled plane and its return to its base."

"The old adage, 'They also serve who only stand and wait,' may be true in some cases but it does not apply in the present scrap rubber situation. Tons and tons of scrap rubber are urgently needed. We have it and must make it available. Every pound of scrap rubber we salvage represents three-quarters of a pound of reclaimed rubber. 'Save rubber in any form and have it ready for the next salvage collection.'"

"Metal of all kinds, rags, fats and bones, are also urgently needed."

"There have been reports that paper is no longer needed. Kraft and corrugated papers and cardboard are still needed, and there is also a demand for newspapers but not in the quantities collected in the past few months. It is suggested that householders return to normal use of newspapers for household purposes, and save all surplus supply for salvage purposes."

"The next salvage collection will be made early in the fall. In the meantime the salvage depot on Huron St. is open at all times for those who wish to dispose of salvage before the next collection date."

"Is anything the matter, sir?"

"It was on the tip of my tongue a moment ago, and now it's gone."

"Think calmly and it will come back to you."

"No, it won't; it was a two-cent stamp."

ARMAMENT PRODUCTION IN FREE CHINA

(Written for Canadian weekly newspapers by the Canadian Institute of International Affairs)

From the early days of the Sino-Japanese conflict an important feature of Japanese strategy has been the elimination of supply lines by which the Chinese might receive arms and munitions from abroad. One by one these lines have been cut until, as matters now stand, such supplies can reach free China only in limited quantities by air, in equally limited quantities carried by coolies or pack-mule over difficult routes from India through eastern Tibet, or over the long arduous road from the U.S.S.R. by way of Singkiang. Recent developments indicate that the Japanese may be trying to cut this latter route, and in any case it is doubtful if, under present circumstances, the Russians would be able to spare military supplies in any great quantities.

According to a statement made by the chief of the press section of the Japanese expeditionary force in China, "the aim of the present operations is not so much to capture strategic enemy positions as to destroy the enemy's fighting power." It is apparent that the success or failure of this aspect of Japanese strategy will depend greatly on the extent to which the needs of the Chinese forces can be supplied by domestic production of material.

When hostilities first broke out, the Chinese had some 15 arsenals. Most of these were small, many having been established by provincial war-lords. The three largest were at Hangchow, Hanyang and Canton. Not so large but much more efficient was another at Kunghsien in Honan, where 1,200 men were employed under a German resident adviser. At best, however, the productive capacity of these arsenals was limited. Output was restricted almost entirely to small arms, mortars, bombs, grenades and small-arms ammunition.

In 1937-38 the Japanese invasion swallowed most of the districts in which the Chinese arsenals were located. While some of the plants fell into Japanese hands, others were dismantled and the machinery removed to new locations in western and southern China. Accurate information as to the amounts of equipment so salvaged is not available, but according to one report, by 1939 China had only three important arsenals. The largest of these was situated near Chungking, and had a monthly output of some 200 machine-guns, 120,000

While the exhibition afforded ample evidence of the extent to which Chinese war industries have advanced, from a technical standpoint, information concerning the quantities of war material now produced is naturally a closely guarded secret. In this connection it is interesting to note a report to the effect that dependence of the Chinese on outside sources for raw materials has been greatly diminished by the use of similar raw materials or substitutes produced within the country.
